YONKERS.

The will of Hamlin J. Andrus was flied yesterday with Surrogate Silkman. Citations were issued, made returnable on November 7, at White Plains. The will is a short document, and his wife, Stella A. Andrus, was made sole legatee, also executrix, with Charles E. Gorton as executor. The will, which was in the handwriting of the dead man, is dated May 28, 1891. and was witnessed by Miss Christina Z. Ryder and Miss J. Valeria Ryder. Louis McLeod, the office boy formerly employed at the factory, and who was brought to Yonkers on Saturday night by the police from Jamalca, Long Island, was yesterday discharged. He could give no information of any importance in reference to the explosion. The feeling that Coroner Miles should hold an inquest and have such evidence as he has on hand brought out is gain ing ground. The police have certain information which they believe will tend to solve the mystery, and this could be heard at the inquest. The Coroner is still at work on the case.

The application to revoke the letters of administration granted to Clara V. Shepard, the widow of Charles DeB. Shepard, of New-Rochelle, which has been pending since June, was completed in the Surregate's Court yesterday. The Surrogate decided that regate's Court yesterday. The Surrogate decided that Grace Adele Shepard, who claimed to be a daughter of Charles DeB. Shepard, had no standing in court, as there was no proof that Shepard was ever married to the woman who was her mother. The Surrogate therefore denied the application.

Hamili J. Andrus, according to statements made by representatives of the three following companies, had his life insured for Showe each in the New-York Life, the Equitable and the Mutual Life Insurance companies. C. J. Smith, of the Mutual, said it was not true, as reported, that the companies would contest the claims on the ground that Mr. Andrus died a suicide. Said he: "Mr. Andrus is dead, and that settles the matter. No investigation is being made by the companies. The claims will be paid according to contract."

Mount Vernon, having lived here forty-four years. Burial will take place to-morrow afternoon in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The new building for the Church of the Ascension (Episcopal) is so nearly completed that it is hoped to hold the dedication services on the second Sunday in November. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will hold farewell services in the old church on Tuesday night next. The new building is at Park and Sidney aves. and the cornerstone was laid on May 14 last. The church society was incorporated in May, 1800, by a band of worshippers numbering less than fifty, and they have since held services in a building erected by the Swedenborgian Society. The new building is of Gothic design, and the materials are native grantic and colored brick. The outside finish is of rockfaced sione. The roof is of slate, with slate lanterned tower, 100 feet in height, and a spire. The church is $5 feet long and $15 feet wide. The interior is finished in oak, with oak pews and other furniture. A marble altar and a reredos, a gift of E. B. Wesley as a memorial to his wife, will be ready for placing in a few weeks. It has been made in Italy. A rectory has been built in Park-ave, and it adjoins the church building. The old church building will be used as a chappel and Sunday-school room. The Rev. F. M. S. Taylor, rector of the church, has been selected to address the Church Congress, which meets at Norfolk, Va., on November 18.

In the court-room, at 3 o'clock, an address was delivered by Fordham Morris, of New-York City. His subject was "The Borough Town of West Chester." ### MARIE DRESSLER'S SUIT.

SHE SUES HER HUSBAND, GEORGE F. HOPPERT. FOR ABSOLUTE DIVORCE.

Justice Beach opened court yesterday morning with a calendar of twenty-two divorce cases before him and a crowd filling the room. In most of the suits decision was reserved.

The case which attracted the greatest attention was that of Hoppert vs. Hoppert, Mrs. Hoppert, known to the stage as Marie Dressler, the muscular Little Flo, of the "Lady Slavey," was the plaintiff and A. H. Hummel appeared as her counsel. She brings suit against her nysband, George F. Hoppert, who was at one time the treasurer for the Lillian Russell Company, for absolute divorce. She met her husband while both were with Lillian Russell in "Giroffe-Giroffa," and was married to him in 1894.

Mrs. Hoppert took the stand and gave testimony as to the date of the marriage, asserting that she had as to the date of the marriage, asserting that she had not connived at the proceedings. A. Kaffenburgh, a clerk in Howe & Hummel's office, testified that he had served the summons and complaint on the defendant in Miner's Bowery Theatre. In all of the proceedings the name of the co-respondent was not mentioned. Kaffenburgh said that Hoppert accepted service. Anna Serrick, janitress of the house, No. 287 West Fortieth-st., testified for Mrs. Hoppert.

series of bimonthly balls, which will continue until Lent.

Over five thousand persons crowded the Prohibition Park auditorium on Tuesday, and made the Republican sound-money meeting one of the greatust gatherings ever seen within a building in the county. Ernest F. Seeheusen was chairman of the meeting. Franklin Bartlett made an address on the National issue, and declared that "he unterly repudiated Tammany and its tiger, with its leaders, who are for gold in July and silver in October." He was followed by Police Commissioner Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt illustrated the humor of the situation by declaring that four years ago the workingmen were told to "down the manufacturers." They had done it, but he was afraid they had got enough of it in the four years. Now they were told to "down the gold bug," but he thought they would not make the same mistake twice. J. Sloat Fassett followed in an address on Bryan and his "isms," which was frequently applicated.

A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE EASE WITH WHICH SCRIBNER'S NEW BOOK MAY BE OBTAINED.

The Tribune, in undertaking to place in this neighborhood the entire first edition of the new Scribner's History of the United States, has taken it for granted that all Americans will feel the want of a fine history of their own country as they do the need of a dictionary or cyclopaedia, which are now days so plentiful. It is rather a curious fact that for so many years there has been no complete history which combined the various needs of a book for the whole family. The manner of showing the history upon a broad scale has been worked out only at great pains and labor, which, it is believed. Tribune readers will appreciate. As will be seen from the announcements in the advertising columns, one can have specimen volumes, or the entire set, if it is desired, brought to one's own office or home for examination, and at any time most convenient. The plan carried out and ready this morning would not have been possible a few years ago. There are 22,000 American District Telegraph callboxes in this city, and upon pulling the lever five times of any one of them specimen volumes of the history, with full details of the plan, will be brought by a messenger without further ado or instruction of any kind. Readers who do not happen to have a district call-box at hand can telephone to 1820 Thirty-eighth-st., where a telegraph operator has centred at his desk wires communicating with all branches of the American District Tele-graph Company in New-York and Brooklyn, so that a messenger with the books and particulars is sent out with as much promptness as though the call-box were used. A cordial invitation is given to all readers to visit the Tribune office and look at the books in the various bindings, or to write for any information desired.

It needs to be said that William Culien Bryant's introduction reflected to some extent that author's well-known views upon economic questions, and that the publishers alone are responsible for them.
